

Yonghun Kim completed Ph.D. (2016) in School of Materials Science and Engineering at Gwangju Institute of Science and Technology. He is currently a senior researcher at Department of Energy and Electronic Materials in Korea Institute of Materials Science (KIMS), South Korea. His research area covers the novel synthesis of two-dimensional nanomaterials and future electronic device applications for artificial neuromorphic synapse.